

Brian Caputo
BAMCOR – Machinery Rebuilding & Repair
A Belfor Company

Brian has over 20 years of practical, hands-on experience related to machinery and equipment repair and restoration, as well as to the management of technicians, employees and c-level business operations. Brian has worked as a service technician, sales manager, vice president and owner of an industry leading machinery repair, rebuilding and restoration company. He is often brought in as an expert by insurance carriers, adjusters and industry consultants to determine machinery repairability, scope of work, cost, and delivery. This assistance is often used in the process, settlement and restoration of machinery and equipment claims. Brian's work has been utilized in most industries and has ranged from work on substantially sized claims in high-speed, close tolerance aircraft industry machinery losses, to steel processing equipment claims, to projects involving family owned manufacturing facilities. He is currently the Senior General Manager of BAMCOR which was acquired by Belfor USA in 2015.
