

Lynne McChristian

Lynne McChristian has more than 25 years of corporate-level and management experience in the insurance industry. She has worked in multiple lines of insurance, including life insurance, property and casualty, and workers compensation. In August 2015, McChristian joined the faculty of Florida State University, teaching classes in risk management and insurance and managing the undergraduate insurance program in the FSU College of Business. Additionally, McChristian is the executive director of the FSU Center for Risk Management Education & Research.

Since 2008, McChristian has also been a consultant for the Insurance Information Institute (I.I.I.), an internationally-known insurance industry trade group based in New York. In addition to providing consumer education on insurance topics and being a trusted resource for media reporting on the insurance industry, McChristian has extensive experience coordinating insurers' response to natural disasters.

McChristian has chaired the insurance committee for the National Hurricane Conference since 2009. She is also a member of the advisory board for FSU's Storm Risk Management Center and on the communications committee of the Insurance Institute for Business & Home Safety.

She earned a bachelor's degree from Marquette University and a master's degree from the University of Arkansas. She has also been on the faculty at the University of South Florida, St. Mary's University and at San Antonio College.
